Based on data from internal quality reporting in fiscal year 2022.*

FIND FREEDOM FROM SUBSTANCE USE DISORDER.

VOA's Freedom House program is a nationally recognized model for treatment and care of pregnant and parenting clients working to overcome substance use disorder.

The only one of its kind in Kentucky, Freedom House helps parents begin a new path to becoming healthy and sober while delivering healthy babies and keeping families united.

AT FREEDOM HOUSE, RECOVERY IS A GOAL EVERYONE CAN REACH.

Our outcome-driven program is unique and comprehensive.

Christina Compton is proof that recovery is possible and Freedom House works. When Christina first came to Freedom House she said, "I thought there was no future for me or my child." Today, Christina is healthy and sober. She and her family are thriving.

"I thought there was no future for me or my child."

-Christina Compton

Christina is more than a Freedom House graduate. She is a VOA colleague and leader, overseeing the admissions department and helping women like her find more hopeful futures.

Christina and her Freedom House colleagues have a simple message for the women they serve every day: "We love you and believe in you."
